Truman Requests Congress

To Extend Controls Over Exports for Year Beyond Present Expiration Date

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—President Truman today asked Congress to extend the government's controls over exports for a year beyond their present expiration date, June 30.

He said in a message requesting speedy action that an uncontrolled outflow of foodstuffs and goods would heighten domestic shortages and increase the "already substantial burden of living costs borne by the American people."

About 500 items—mostly foods—remain under export control compared with some 3,000 at the wartime peak, he said, adding:

"I look forward to the day when the United States and other countries can remove these interferences to the free flow of commodities in world trade."

"But the danger of immediate and complete decontrol in the face of continuing domestic and world scarcities is too great for this nation to undertake at this time."

Delay Would Be Bad

Delay by Congress would "prove unsettling to business and would handicap the planning and execution of our food and other export programs," Mr. Truman said in asking the Senate and House to act "well in advance" of the mid-year deadline.

"Our international responsibilities cannot be fulfilled without this machinery," the president declared, explaining that the United States is the center of demand for world scarcities.

Without export regulation, he said, foreign purchasers would go for commodities whose supply is the shortest. He added:

"Not only would our domestic supply and price structure be seriously affected, but the commodities would go to destinations where the need is comparatively less pressing."

He also said the purpose of dollar loans to "nations whose existence must be preserved" can be achieved only if those countries are able to buy needed supplies from this country. Export control is "an important instrument" in carrying out such programs, the president said.

Recalls Message

He recalled that his January 31 message requesting extension of certain portions of the Second War Powers Act had carried the information that recommendations on export control would be delayed until it could be ascertained whether extension would be needed.

"Further review of domestic and world supplies has now convinced me that this government must continue its control over the export of products in critically short supply here and abroad, in order to protect the economy of the United States as well as to discharge our international responsibilities."

Adrift 11 Days In Small Boat

TAMPA, Fla., March 19.—(P)—Two sun-blackened Virginians were recovering from exposure and near-starvation today after being adrift 11 days in a small power boat in the Gulf of Mexico.

The two men, W. Horace Blanchard, 32, of Newport News and Charles King, 18, of Hampton were able to talk of their dramatic rescue yesterday by an Army amphibian only a few hours before a search which covered 50,000 square miles of gulf waters was scheduled to end.

They told of long hours of hunger and cold as they tossed about in their 22-foot cabin cruiser, and of using their last flare in a desperate gamble to attract an army search plane from MacDill Field. The plane saw the flare and radioed the amphibian when effected the rescue.

"I guess we've been lucky," Blanchard said, lying on a nose-down, a stout boat and the pital bed at MacDill Field. "The only things that saved us were Army Air Forces."

"We both prayed a lot and I never lost hope we would be found. I have a wife and three children at home."

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—(P)—Mayor Aloys F. Kaufmann said today he has received a letter threatening the life of his two-year-old son and himself "if the public housing bill passes."

Kindergarten Has Answer

NEW YORK, March 19.—(P)—Out of the mouths of the kindergarten class at public school 90 in Queens has come the answer to the problem the world is using its best brains and millions of dollars to solve:

The children composed a message to Warren Austin, senior United States representative to United Nations, who replied they had confirmed his faith "in the great purpose" upon which 54 nations are serving. The two letters are being circulated in schools throughout the nation.

The kindergarten solution: "War is fighting. People hate and use people's clothes away. They should think not to make a war. The shouldn't have guns."

"Please ask God kindly to make the children across the ocean, and the Americans too—every little boy and girl in every country—to make them better."

"We love you."

Gust Karras, Lions Speaker, On Wrestling

Recalls Strangler Lewis Match That Lasted Five Hours

"How wrestling shows are operated" was the subject taken of Gust Karras, speaker at the noon day meeting of the Sedalia Lions Club held in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell hotel. Mr. Karras, in his talk, told of personal experiences as a wrestler and of events of other matches in the days past.

"Wrestling has been modernized to suit the American public," Karras said. "It has been changed from the old bull strength and scientific methods to satisfy the paying customers who are demanding fast action, thrills and rough stuff."

"I remember many years ago when Strangler Lewis and Joe Stecker wrestled in Omaha, Neb., for five hours, for the world championship. It was more than three hours before either hit the mat. That was in the days of scientific wrestling and bull strength. Today if wrestlers were in the ring and went more than ten minutes without somebody hitting the canvas the crowd would be screaming their eyes out and want their money back."

Public Likes Action

"The American public likes action. If blood spurts, the more they like it, and the women like it more than the men. Today wrestling has turned into more of an entertainment business, but it's a good sport which the public likes and which I, as a promoter, try to give them."

Continuing Mr. Karras explained the costs of holding such matches and what the participants receive for their work. He also explained the physical conditions wrestlers must stay in to be able to wrestle three and four nights a week.

He said in conclusion, "Wrestlers keep working out every day, and do not depend on their two or three shows a week to keep them in condition. I can tell you that it is one tough way of making a living."

The guest was introduced by program chairman William Davis, commander of Post 16, American Legion, which organization sponsors wrestling in Sedalia.

Guests at today's meeting were Raymond Hayes of the club, Martin J. McFadden, Kansas City, of Al Gardner and Gene Bayless, St. Louis, of Sam Higleyman.

Reverend Father William P. Stack, presided.

Need Veterans In Housing Plan

An appeal to local veterans to assist the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce in combating the housing shortage was made today by William E. Miller, director in charge of the veterans and military affairs division of the Chamber.

Stressing the point that the housing division is handicapped in preparing its plans because the Chamber does not have a complete list of all the veterans who need housing facilities, Miller asked all veterans who need housing accommodations to notify the Chamber of Commerce. Information needed includes the size of the family, their requirements, whether they prefer to rent or buy, or whether they need furnished or unfurnished units, and the approximate price they can pay.

Chamber of Commerce Discusses Teachers Salaries

The Educational committee of the Chamber of Commerce held a meeting this afternoon in the Chamber offices, 112 West Fourth street. The topic for discussion was the present school teachers' salaries.

M. E. Thompson is Governor Of Georgia, High Court Says

ATLANTA, March 19.—(P)—The state supreme court in a 5 to 2 decision today held that M. E. Thompson is Georgia's governor and that Herman Talmadge's election by the legislature was illegal.

Talmadge, who assumed office with the backing of national guard officers and state troopers, announced that he would vacate both the executive office and the mansion "as soon as we can get the files out and our personal effects packed." Thompson will serve until January, 1949.

Talmadge said in a statement to newsmen that he considered the people the court of last resort in political questions, and said the question "will be carried to the court of last resort." He did not elaborate further on that statement.

Thompson, in a statement from his offices in an Atlanta hotel, said the decision upheld his belief "that the will of the people as expressed by their ballots should prevail."

His offices were thrown into an uproar over the decision with well wishers rushing in and telephones ringing with congratulatory messages.

The court decision was written by Presiding Justice Henry Dugworth. Chief Justice W. F. Jenkins and Justice Tom S. Candler filed a dissenting opinion.

Other Pettis counties who are summoned to serve are: William H. Carl, real estate and loans; G. W. Chambers, jeweler; Herbert Mason, banker; Emil Neff, employee Missouri Bankers' association; and Tom H. Yount, insurance.

This morning Mrs. Walker said to a Democrat reporter, "It's all new to me, and I guess it is something new in women serving on juries. However, I think it will be somewhat interesting, and if I am qualified to serve I will. I have written to learn how long it will take and to find out what it is all about."

Mrs. Walker's husband is a subforeman in the wheel section of the supply department at the Missouri Pacific shops.

Partial Recovery

SAN JOSE, Calif., March 19.—(P)—The gunman who robbed Herbert Bettencourt of $12,000 in cash and checks Sunday night—week-end receipts of the Bettencourt Market—helped him yesterday.

Following directions in a phone call from the culprit Bettencourt found $4,000 in checks in a paper bag in the store's parking lot.

Sen. Reviled by 'Hoodlums'

JEFFERSON CITY, March 19.—(P)—Sen. H. R. Williams (R) of Cassville told the Missouri Senate today that Sen. Charles L. Madison (R) of Kansas City was reviled last night in a capitol corridor by a group of men whom Williams identified as "hoodlums."

Williams said the attack occurred after a Senate committee hearing on Madison's bill for strict labor union control. He said the men called Madison "innumerable dirty names in the presence of his good wife."

"Has the time come," Williams asked, "that a man can't come down here to serve his district without being insulted by gangsters, thugs and hoodlums?"

He said he respected Missouri labor leaders but advised them, "if they expect labor to get a fair and impartial trial they had better leave these hoodlums at home."

Williams said the group followed Madison down the hall and called him various names "which I won't define by repeating." Madison was "highly nervous" after the incident, Williams said, but kept his temper because he did not want to create a scene.

"No senator should be subjected to these indignities by any class of people," Williams concluded.

"If a senator has to have armed guards to go from a committee room to his office we have arrived at a very dangerous state."

Three Persons Burn to Death In Springfield

Doors and Windows Of House Locked, Stuff Everywhere

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 19.—(P)—Three persons were found burned to death today in a new one-story house which Harold H. Conant recently occupied five miles south of here.

The victims were Conant, about 50, former secretary and business agent of the Sheet Metal Workers Local 146, AFL; his wife, Mrs. Clara Conant, about 45, and their son, Harold H. Conant, Jr., about 25, a navy veteran.

The fire was discovered shortly before 10 a. m. when a customer at the Joe Watson country store several hundred yards away noticed smoke coming from the house.

Watson and several customers rushed to the house. Inside the front door they found the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Conant lying on a partly burned mattress. In an adjoining room they found the body of the son, also on a burned mattress.

All doors and windows in the house were locked.

"First we saw that they were dead," Watson said. "Then we noticed that dresser drawers were pulled out and there was stuff everywhere."

Watson said flames were not in evidence until after the front door was opened. The bodies were removed before the fire destroyed the house.

Coroner Murray Stone advanced the theory that the fire might have been caused by a defective furnace, but the fire failed to gain headway because of the lack of oxygen.

Conant and his son had planned to open an eating drive-in here tomorrow. Until a year ago Conant was foreman at a Springfield display sign company. He recently disposed of a dairy business.

The son had been employed by a Garden City, Kas., sign company until recently, when he returned home to join his father in the drive-in.

Mrs. Conant was a past president of the American Legion auxiliary and president of the navy mothers organization here.

Supreme Court Language

This was the language used by the supreme court in directing him to comply with the court order.

Lewis said to his membership that "these actions have been taken in full conformance with the orders and directions of the district court of the United States for the District of Columbia, as affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States on March 6, 1947."

The government has been operating the mines since last May 22 when they were seized to end a 59-day strike. President Truman recently ended authority by which the properties were seized under a war powers act.

Unless congress takes action to extend authority of the government to seize and operate such properties in the public interest the tenure of the coal mines administrator will cease June 30.

Whether Lewis and the coal operators, often in disagreement, can be brought together to sign a contract by that time is uncertain.

Lewis' action today continues in force the contract he has had with Krug last May.

Lewis to End Contract

It was this contract that Lewis sought to end last fall. The government obtained an order from federal judge T. Alan Goldsborough directing Lewis and his miners to call off a strike that followed in November.

When Lewis refused, he and the miners were held guilty of contempt. Lewis was fined $10,000 and the United Mines Workers were fined $3,500,000. The supreme court upheld the contempt convictions and the Lewis fine.

The court, however, directed that the union fine be reduced to $700,000, provided Lewis withdrew his notice ending the contract with the government within five days after issuance of the supreme court mandate.

Saves Union Fine

Subsequently, on petition of the government, the supreme court speeded effectiveness of its order. Its mandate is to be filed with the federal district court tomorrow.

Thus, by obeying the court order today, Lewis saves the mine union a possible additional fine of $2,800,000.

Copies of Lewis' letter also went to members of the UMW notifying them that he had called off his notice to end the contract with the government.

Flue Fire

The fire companies at 8:09 o'clock this morning were called to the residence of Mrs. August Ruel, 109 Gentry street, where a flue was burning out. No fire loss resulted.

Toasts Given In Peace Party

Foreign Ministers Guests at Dinner Of Molotovs

By John M. Hightower

MOSCOW, March 19—(AP)—The four foreign ministers decked out in their party clothes dined at a round of toasts Tuesday night to the success of their deliberations on a peace treaty for Germany.

The scene was the house of the Soviet aviation industry where they meet daily often to argue and wrangle. But tonight there was none of that as they gathered to dine, drink and be friends across the table.

Four toasts were drunk at dinner, at which Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and his wife were hosts.

The Soviet foreign minister opened the toasting by welcoming the guests to Moscow and expressing hope for the success of the conference.

Ernest Bevin, bulky British foreign secretary, then rose slowly to his feet.

Looking solemnly at his colleagues Bevin declared he had seen two wars and never wanted to see another. He then proposed that the party drink to the success of the four power foreign ministers conference.

Wears Decoration

U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall, wearing the Soviet Order of Suror on his dinner jacket, recalled he was given the decoration by the Soviet ambassador in Washington the night before the Normandy invasion.

Normandy, Marshall declared, was a great cooperative undertaking which had won victory for the Allies. He said it was his hope that the Allied accord attained during the war could be achieved in the years of peace.

French Foreign Minister George Bidault, in drinking to the success of the conference, also proposed the health of Prime Minister Stalin. Bidault, who conferred with Stalin last night, was the only one of the ministers to refer to the Russian leader in a toast.

It was serious toasting and there was little jesting.

Following dinner, the Molotovs received about 600 guests in a huge, two-story reception room trimmed with the flags of the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia. It was a brilliant throng, with most of the women in evening gowns decorated with spangles and jewels.

Following the style show, Boy Scout Troop No. 60, presented a tumbling act. The troop is under the leadership of H. R. Kettle, and W. L. Mathews.

Boy Scout Troop No. 54, presented its "All Girl Orchestra," following the tumbling act. Troop No. 54 is led by Rex Schrader, and William Morgan.

Sought Safety From Assailant

The police received a call Tuesday night about 10:10 o'clock from Mrs. O. S. Decker, 709 West Tenth street, reporting that a girl from that vicinity had sought safety in her home after being grabbed by an unknown person.

The incident took place on Tenth street between Grand and Harrison avenues. The young woman told the officers she was returning to her home from a friend's house. As she approached the alley between Ninth and Tenth streets she said a man grabbed her from behind and attempted to drag her into the alley.

The assailant slipped on a muddy spot in the sidewalk and lost his grip on the woman. She then ran from the spot to the Decker home across the street where she remained until her father came for her.

An effort by officers to locate the molester proved futile up to late last night. Only a meager description was given by the girl who said she was too badly frightened to be able to give a detailed one as the man being behind her she did not get a good view of him.

The Daily Washington Merry-go-Round

WASHINGTON, March 19 — Forty-four of the 51 Republican senators attended the very off-the-record session of the Republican conference, to hear foreign relations chairman Arthur Vandenberg explain the Greek-Turkish situation. So anxious were they to prevent leaks from the secret session that even the senate employees, ordinarily on hand for GOP conferences, were locked out of the room.

Senator Vandenberg opened the blue ribbon session with a long, able explanation of the Near East emergency, making it plain that he feels the president must be supported in his request for 400 million dollars to block Communism in Greece and Turkey.

Vandenberg was subjected to a relentless barrage of questions from GOP colleagues and handled himself well. Sometimes, however, he fell back on this stock answer:

"That's an important question to be considered. If you will let me have it in writing, I will see to it that it is answered during our hearings. It is information which the senate should have."

During the entire conference, only two senators — Wayne Morse of Oregon and Ray Baldwin of Connecticut — pledged all out support for the presidential recommendations. The majority of others indicated by their questioning that they have some doubt about the advisability of U. S. intervention in Near East politics. In fact, there was a rumbling from the GOP senators when Vandenberg mentioned that in case the loan was not approved by congress by March 31, an "advance" to Greece of 100 million might be made by the RFC.

China vs. Greece

Much of the questioning was aimed at finding out from Vandenberg how he could reconcile our proposed intervention in the Near East with administration policy elsewhere in the world. Why, asked several senators, should we be trying to block Communism in the Near East when we have, in effect, notified Chiang Kai-Shek he cannot count upon our support unless he broadens his government to include Chinese Communists?

Senator Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the vital, congressional committee on atomic energy, voiced the thoughts of some colleagues when he remarked:

"I feel, and I think many of us here feel, a great fear for the future. If we agree to provide these moneys, it seems to me we'll have to decide to go all the way. The only further step is war."

Senators William Jenner of Indiana and Bob Taft of Ohio were highly critical of the administration's handling of the matter.

"This is a momentous step we are asked to take," said Jenner, an ex-air force officer. "Information that has come to me indicates that the administration has known since last October that the British would have to pull out of these areas — yet we are not told about it until early March."

"I understand," Taft added, "that foreign minister Bevin told Secretary Byrnes last October this would happen, yet we were not told a word of it."

"If that is true," replied Vandenberg, "I certainly was not told of it."

No attempt was made to lay down a formal GOP position, the meeting was purely informative. One thing a large bloc of GOP senators still wants to know is where will the money come from to aid Greece and Turkey — later Korea, Palestine, India and perhaps other countries in the battle to stop Communism. There will be no end of it, they fear, and they see their hopes of budget balancing gone glimmering.

Tax Czar Knutson Prussian-like Chairman Harold Knutson has long riled the Democrats by his dictatorial control of the house ways and means committee, but now he is getting on Republican nerves. However, it took a Democrat to make Knutson yield a minor point the other day.

Jere Cooper of Tennessee, one of the sharpest members of the committee made a reference to the previous days' testimony by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder. Knutson doubted the accuracy of Cooper's memory, and called upon the committee clerk to give him a copy of the transcript of Snyder's testimony at the previous day's hearing.

As Knutson started to turn the pages, Democrat Walter Lynch of New York asked: "May the rest of us have copies of the record, Mr. Chairman?"

"I have just this one copy," replied Knutson, obviously annoyed.

"Can't the rest of us get copies?" Lynch persisted.

"All I have is just this one printer's copy," Knutson repeated.

"But I suppose the speaker has one, too — or does he share yours?" returned Lynch sarcastically.

Testily, Knutson snarled at the clerk, "Oh give him a copy — if we don't give him one he's going to pass out."

"I'm sure of one thing," countered Lynch, who is about 40 years younger than the aging Knutson, "I'm not likely to pass out before the chairman of this committee!"

NOTE — One thing irking both Republican and Democratic members of the ways and means committee is that Knutson will not

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a general run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Senator McKellar's Car

Republican senate leaders Vandenberg and Taft emerged from the White House the other day after a conference with President Truman. As they walked through the corridors, Vandenberg asked Taft whether the Ohio senator had transportation back to the hill. Taft replied that he hadn't.

"How about riding back with me?" invited Vandenberg.

"Delighted," replied Taft.

"That's fine. We'll both ride back to the hill in Senator McKellar's car."

Note — Vandenberg, who hasn't had a government car before, never refers to it as his own, but as McKellar's. He recalls, perhaps, the great joy which the gentleman from Tennessee took in riding round in the big black limousine formerly reserved for Vice President Wallace and Vice President Truman. Now Vandenberg, as president pro tem of the senate, has inherited the limousine.

house armed services committee will crack down on the navy's new procurement system, where by the brass hats are squeezing out small dealers and jobbers, by buying supplies for ship service stores direct from manufacturers.

Hearings conducted by Rep. Jack Anderson of California last week revealed that hundreds of dealers and jobbers who normally do business with ship stores are being excluded from the navy market.

The hearings also revealed that navy procurement officials have threatened certain manufacturers that they must sell direct to the navy at factory prices, or their products won't be carried in ship stores. Congressman Anderson and his committee colleagues will demand that the brass hats cease this system which excludes small businessmen.

And That Ain't Hay —Or Is It?

I guess all of us secretly hanker, from time to time, for the good old days and the good old-fashioned pleasures. Leastways, Buddy Richards done a thriving business reviving the old-time hayride.

With a team of horses, and a stout straw-bedded rack, Buddy can take as many as thirty adults — at fifty cents a head!

Two or three times a week they start from Town Hall, and go out along the river; stop for a friendly glass of beer at Shoreside Tavern; and come home by way of Pound Ridge . . . nine miles in all.

Not very exciting, you might say. But from where I sit it's not excitement that we need these days—but those simple country pleasures that are part and parcel of America—the old-fashioned hayride, with its song and jollity; the horseshoe games; the friendly glass of beer; and the good companionship that they engender.

Present Bill For Federal Labor Courts

With Jurisdiction Over Majority Labor-Management Dispute

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—Senators Ferguson (R-Mich) and Smith (R-N.J.) today introduced a bill to create a system of federal labor relations courts with jurisdiction over "a large majority" of labor-management disputes.

The courts would have the right to issue injunctions in labor cases, a course now forbidden by the Norris-LaGuardia Act in disputes involving private industry.

They would have jurisdiction to interpret collective bargaining contracts and to review actions of the administrators of the National Labor Relations (Wagner) Act, the Fair Labor Standards (Wage-Hour) Act and the Railway Labor Act.

Ferguson told the Senate "We are in a state of near-anarchy" when it comes to industrial disputes and the time has come to subject them to "the legal discipline of a civilized society."

Smith declared the bill would cover "at least three-fourths" of such cases and could lead to "the ultimate settlement of all labor-management disputes on the basis of what is right and just."

The Smith-Ferguson proposal was offered in the Senate only a few days after Rep. Landis (R-Ind.) told reporters there is a 50-50 chance the House Labor committee may suggest revision of the Norris-LaGuardia Act as a means of combatting strikes which affect the national welfare.

Landis, a member of the committee, said members may recommend an amendment which would permit the government to obtain injunctions in cases where walk-outs against private business such as coal mines or transportation—would involve the national safety or health.

Ferguson, who has been working on the labor courts plan for months, and Smith, a member of the Senate Labor committee, explained their bill in statements prepared for delivery to the Senate.

The measure would be considered along with numerous others by the Senate Labor committee, which is seeking to send a broad labor bill to the floor this month.

11 District Courts

The Ferguson-Smith bill would set up 11 district courts of three members each. Two members would be lawyers, the third a layman. The courts would have jurisdiction over:

1. Cases arising out of the interpretation of union-management contracts. For example either a union or a company might file a suit in those courts claiming their contract wasn't being followed.

2. Petitions and reviews under the National Labor Relations Act, Fair Labor Standards Act, and Railway Labor Act. For example, an employer who wanted to appeal a ruling of the National Labor Relations Board would go to one of the new labor courts instead of to a U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, as at present.

The labor courts would not settle disputes which arise in the making of a new labor-management contract. Ferguson wants them to have that power eventually, but he told the Senate "more time and study are required to develop such legislation."

Smith said he and Ferguson are studying further the question of "national paralysis" cases.

News Briefs

MOSCOW, March 19.—(AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov told the Council of Foreign Ministers tonight that after hearing the differing views of the United States, Britain and France he still believed agreement possible in Moscow among the four powers on the critical German economic program.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—Senator Smith (R-N.J.) demanded today that the State Department reconcile President Truman's proposal to arm and train Greek troops with the United Nations charter declaration against war and for peaceful settlement of world disputes.

Smith, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, listed this as one of a series of 13 queries he sent to Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) for incorporation in a questionnaire to be submitted to the State Department.

His move came as the House Foreign Affairs committee arranged to begin hearings tomorrow and start translating into legislation the president's request for authority to extend $400,000,000 cash and limited military aid to Greece and Turkey.

MOSCOW, March 19.—(AP)—Top American officials predicted today that unless the Council of Foreign Ministers finds—and agrees upon—some overall solution for Germany's current problems there will be no solution at all.

These informants said the council meetings had reached a point at which it was apparent that great difficulties would be encountered in getting to such an overall solution, and added that the situation in Germany now is so badly split up that piecemeal settlements seemed impossible.

Unless Russia, in particular, is willing to go along with some sort of sweeping program to wipe out all zone boundaries and organize German life on a national basis, they continued, the Moscow conference, in this respect at least, seemed doomed to fail.

Landis, a member of the committee, said members may recommend an amendment which would permit the government to obtain injunctions in cases where walk-outs against private business such as coal mines or transportation—would involve the national safety or health.

Ferguson, who has been working on the labor courts plan for months, and Smith, a member of the Senate Labor committee, explained their bill in statements prepared for delivery to the Senate.

Youth Signs Statement on 'Black Dahlia'

Admits Slaying But Officers Find Discrepancies

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—(AP)—St. Louis police reported a slender 22-year-old youth signed a statement admitting the "Black Dahlia" slaying but officers in Los Angeles, where the nude bled body of Elizabeth Short was found, pointed today to discrepancies in the story.

The 22-year-old Miss Short was known as the "Black Dahlia" because of her black hair and clothing.

Chief of Detectives Leonard Murphy identified the youth as Melvin Robert Bailey and quoted him as saying he "got mad" at Miss Short because she refused to go east with him and "took my knife out and used it on her."

The mutilated body of the girl was discovered in a vacant lot in Los Angeles last Jan. 15.

Murphy said the youth related in the statement that he met Miss Short in a Los Angeles bar about Christmas time. In Los Angeles, Capt. Jack Donahoe said he was almost positive, from his investigations, that the girl was in San Diego, Calif., at that time.

Drank Together

On the night of the slaying Bailey said he and Miss Short drank together, Murphy reported.

The detective said Bailey related he drank coffee with a drug in it and "I was so sky high on it stuff I didn't know what I was doing."

Bailey said that later the two drove to a sparsely settled part of Los Angeles and "I got out my commando knife and cut her up," and left the body in a vacant lot, Murphy reported.

Los Angeles police believe the girl was slain only a few hours before her body was found the morning of January 15. Murphy said Bailey was hazy on the exact date and gave it as January 13 or 15.

The youth brought up the "Black Dahlia" case during a routine questioning concerning stolen automobiles yesterday. He was arrested last February 12 on a highway near St. Louis with a male companion.

A number of crank notes and false "confessions" followed the finding of Miss Short's body. Los Angeles police said they would await receipt of Bailey's fingerprints before determining their next action.

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—(AP)—A murder indictment and an inquest verdict of death at the hands of "person or persons unknown" were the developments today in two of the four brutal slayings of women in Los Angeles and vicinity since January 15.

The grand jury returned an indictment yesterday charging Myron Lee Funk, 23, husky foundry moulder, with murdering Mrs. Mae Lorene Lund, 46, also known as Mae Preston.

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—(AP)—Found bleeding, her skull badly gashed, in a clump of bushes in Elysian park today, Anna Diresio, 55, was rushed to a hospital today in critical condition.

Physicians said after treatment that the fifty-year-old victim had been the victim of a vicious and murderous assault on women in the city and its suburbs might recover.

Unconscious when found by a park caretaker who heard moans, she emerged from the coma at a hospital and told doctors that she believes she was assaulted by a chance acquaintance. She said she met the man at a downtown market late yesterday, went with him to the park, but refused his pleas that she accompany him to her home.

That she added, was the last she recalled.

Bothwell Hospital Notes

Mrs. Floyd Walker, Knob Noster, admitted for surgery.

Frank H. Scow, Rockville, admitted for medical treatment.

Ralph Hanna, 604 West Sixth street, admitted for medical treatment and dismissed.

Mrs. John Wootan, 419 North Quincy avenue; Miss Marellyn Hall, California and Mrs. J. B. Butts, Thirty-second street and Ohio avenue, dismissed.

Mrs. Virginia Tucker, 900 South Prospect avenue; Mrs. Orvis Crouch, 1530 South Harrison avenue; Miss Mayme Shipley, 414 East Seventh street; J. A. Howard, 1419 North Osage avenue, dismissed.

Mrs. Fisk was attached to the 44th division in which there was only one other Sedalia man, John William Fuqua. They received their basic training together and were sent overseas to the European area as replacements to that division, which was originally made up of National Guards from Newark, N. J. They spent six months together in Europe and were separated when they returned to the states. Following his discharge Fisk enlisted for an additional year which he spent in the states.

Breaks Record Time

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—(AP)—The Federal Barge Lines towboat, Cairo, carrying two coal barges and one loaded with steel, arrived in St. Paul today in the record-breaking time of 10 days, the coast guard reported.

Its trip marked the earliest spring break-through on the Mississippi river in history, eclipsing by six days a previous record set in 1857 by the steamer Gray Eagle. The season's second tow, the Vicksburg, left today with 12 barges.

field in the rotation each year, just before it went to corn. The last field was terraced in 1944. An orchard was started in 1937 and there are 35 trees there. An additional 180 acres were purchased in 1943 to provide more pasture.

A new home was built in 1945 while other buildings constructed since the Gibsons moved include 2 barns, a hen house, cave, garage, brooder house and 2 range shelters.

"In fact," Mr. Gibson said, "the only buildings still here that were here when we moved are a brooder house and a corn crib."

Work Still To Be Done

Though the home was completed, much work still remained to be done on it and its surroundings. Some of this work done in 1946 included furnishing the bathroom, putting in a deep well pump, building a pump house, putting the water in the home, and building a septic tank. The lawn was seeded, all the shrubs called for the plan were set out and the drive was graveled.

A third tract of land, 152 acres, was purchased in 1946 to provide additional cropland. As soon as Mr. Gibson obtains possession a contractor was called in to build the 6 terrace outlets needed. If a stand of grass is obtained in these outlets the first 40 acres will be terraced this summer. A large pond from which the entire 152 acres can be watered was also built in 1946.

Additions To The Farm

Dropping pits were put in the laying house last fall, and a purebred spotted Poland boar was purchased. A purebred Hereford bull calf and a purebred Hampshire Ram were bought in 1945. Their turkeys and chickens are raised on clean ground and the five fields in the crop rotation, each of which is fenced with woven wire, are used to provide clean ground for the hogs and sheep. These fences as well as 2 miles of barbed wire on the 180 acres were put in by the Gibsons prior to 1946. About a half mile of new fence was put on the 152 acres in 1946. The posts for all fences are hedge and were cut on the farm. Mr. Gibson said "I started out to put the posts 20 feet apart, but now I put them just 10 feet apart."

Have Six Children

The Gibsons have 6 youngsters, the eldest, T. H. leaving recently for service in the army. Only 4 are yet old enough for 4-H club work, but they and their parents are active in their local club. Mrs. Gibson has been community leader and Mr. Gibson a project leader. Two of the boys are feeding a good whiteface calf apiece. These calves were selected out of their own herd.

Mr. Gibson is on the Farm Bureau board, chairman of the C. F. H. (formerly FSA) committee and Pres. of the School Board, while Mrs. Gibson is the president of their home economics club and secretary of their P. T. A., which proves they have found time to take part in community affairs while doing a good job of farm and home making.

Share Views on Potsdam Plan

LONDON, March 19.—(AP)—A British foreign office spokesman said today Britain "shared the U. S. view" that the Big Three Post-am agreement superseded all other major power agreements with regard to German reparations.

The spokesman made the statement following Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's statement to the council of foreign ministers that the Big Three had concluded an agreement at Yalta, the text of which had been secret heretofore, under which German reparations were to be collected from post-war current production.

Tass, official Russian news agency, in a verbatim report of Molotov's statement, said the Yalta agreement was disclosed in pressing the Russian claim for $10,000,000,000 reparations from Germany, part of it from current production. The United States and Britain, opposing the claim, hold the cost of feeding the Germans should be the first charge against current production.

Police Act on Bookmakers

KANSAS CITY, March 19.—(AP)—Lieut. Doral Denison, head of the police vice bureau, declared he was going to "close up" horse race bookmakers in Kansas City, after raiding four places and arresting 10 persons yesterday.

"I'm not going to fool with them any more," Denison said.

Yesterday's police action was the first since Governor Phil M. Donnelly started proceedings to cut off telephone service to two race news companies here.

Simon Partnow, president of the Harmony Publishing company, one of the news services, yesterday asked the Missouri Public Service Commission to order the Southwestern Bell Telephone company to restore service to the firm.

In his application Partnow declared he was not violating any state laws; that Southwestern Bell had "no legal right" to discontinue service and that statements of Governor Donnelly and Attorney General J. E. Taylor were "not founded on any fact."

The governor and the attorney-general, in ordering discontinuance of service to the firms, charged the service was being used "as an instrumentality to violate the laws of the state."

'Freedom From Fear' Movie

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—(AP)—The first of what may be a series of movies on the life of Franklin Delano Roosevelt will be based, Producer Jay Richard Kennedy disclosed last night, on one of the late president's "Four Freedoms"—freedom from fear.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, here on a lecture tour, has approved his plans for the movie Kennedy said. The late president's widow and her son, James, conferred with Kennedy in James' Beverly Hills home.

"We are predicating the picture," Kennedy said, "on a statement in Roosevelt's 1933 inaugural address: 'There is nothing to fear but fear itself.' This was the theme of his entire career. He made it one of his four freedoms."

Forecast For a Billion Budget

Senator Taft is For the Securing Of More Homes

WASHINGTON, March 19—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-O) Tuesday forecast an eventual $1,000,000,000-a-year federal budget for social welfare—education, health and housing—and declared the shortage of homes is a problem crying for attention.

Testifying before the senate banking committee, Taft declared "We are going to have to do something soon" to get more homes.

Senator Robertson (D-Va.) asked Taft if he would be willing to increase the national debt, now totalling $262,000,000,000, to take care of the housing problem.

"No," Taft replied firmly, "I would not."

Nevertheless, he said, the housing situation is a national problem and "nothing is closer to the welfare of the people."

"The government has done no job at all in the past," he said, "and private industry has never provided the necessary housing for lowest income groups."

Taft asserted that the emergency program set up by congress last year to encourage production of scarce building materials has been "a complete failure." He said that of $400,000,000 provided for subsidies to producers, only about $35,000,000 will have been spent by the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

"The justification for public housing is that we have to eliminate the disgraceful type of housing in which the lowest income families live," he said.

For 15 Million Houses

Taft was joined in his testimony by Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) and Ellender (D-La.), co-sponsors of the Wagner-Ellender-Taft bill which sets up a goal of 15,000,000 new dwellings by 1958. Some of this construction would be public housing, built with the aid of federal money.

Stressing the need for public housing, Ellender cited industry opposition and declared:

"I find such an attitude very disturbing. In effect, it is a recommendation for the condemnation indefinitely of millions of our citizenry, through no fault of their own, to lives of squalor and disease."

Raymond M. Foley, National Housing Administrator, told the committee that while the W-E-T bill is "not perfect, I believe it would make it possible for this nation to start forward now with the kind of a housing program which has long been needed."

Taft estimated the housing program would ultimately cost $150,000,000 a year. He linked this outlay with proposed educational and health-assistance programs each costing $250,000,000 annually, and declared:

"It would not be too much to raise this to $1,000,000,000 a year when we have a federal budget of between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 a year."

Car Plunges Into River; Two Dead

KANSAS CITY, March 19—(AP)—Two persons, a man and a woman, were killed early Tuesday in a 40-foot plunge of their car into the Blue river near here.

The victims were identified as Clarence Dale Lewis, 36, an army air force veteran, and Miss Bonnie June Bruner, 19, a telephone operator. Both lived here.

A friend of Lewis', Melvin J. Moore, 24, also of Kansas City, was quoted by police Capt. E. K. Burgard as saying that he was following Lewis when the latter's car suddenly swerved to the right side of the road, struck a concrete bridge abutment and hurtled 46 feet down to the river below. The car came to rest in six feet of water.

WASHINGTON, March 19—(AP)—Rep. Bennett (R-Mo) presided as acting speaker in the house Tuesday and received a souvenir autographed gavel from Speaker Martin (R-Mass.).

"It is the first time I have been called upon to sit in the chair while the house was in session," Bennett told a reporter.

Occasionally the speaker asks a member to preside. Bennett presided for about two hours.

Appeal Against Closed Shop

Senator Madison Makes it Before Committee

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 19—(AP)—Sen. Charles L. Madison (R) of Kansas City asked the Missouri Senate's committee on industrial relations Tuesday night to outlaw the closed shop because, he said, "the right to work should be guaranteed to all Americans."

"It is a right that must be preserved—not subject to denial by unions bosses or employers," he said in ending senate hearings on his broad union control bill to ban the closed shop, set up a system of arbitration, provide a "cooling off" period before work stoppages and permit unions to be sued for breaches of contracts.

He said no rank and file union members had appeared before the committee. They favor outlawing the closed shop, he declared, "but can't express themselves."

"The unions evidently do not realize or have sadly misguaged public opinion if they think nothing's going to do" on labor legislation, Madison said.

Called Bill 'Fascist' The freshman legislator, a marine corps veteran, summarized his views after Nick Blassie of St. Louis, president of the Missouri State Conference of Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, had called Madison's bill "Fascist in every respect."

He said the measure was "trying to put handcuffs on labor and knock hell out of them later on." After the hearing Sen. David E. Horn (R) of St. Louis, committee chairman, said no date had been set for action on the measure. He added that he had been impressed by some of the statements of the Rev. Leo C. Brown, a Catholic priest who formerly served on war labor mediation panels and is director of the St. Louis University Institute of Social Science.

Father Brown told the committee he thought jurisdictional disputes "are properly a matter for compulsory arbitration" although compulsion might be dangerous in other labor conflicts.

He urged the committee to draft a measure which would encourage labor unions to establish their own machinery for settling jurisdictional strife before requiring arbitration by a state agency.

Before doing anything to prevent secondary boycotts—banned in Madison's bill—Father Brown suggested appointment of a special committee to determine when such boycotts would be justified, or when they might be intolerable.

Army's 664 Teen-Age 'Guinea Pigs' at Fort Knox May Revolutionize Basic Training

Any one of the 664 teen-age trainees at Fort Knox experimental unit who displays qualities of leadership is given a chance to exercise those qualities. Like Trainee Francis J. Second (right rear), 17, of Jersey City, N. J., he becomes an acting platoon sergeant, learns how to handle individuals, plans the next day's schedule, learns how to command 42 fellow trainees.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
FORT KNOX, Ky., March 19 (NEA)—Revolutionary changes in the Army's traditional basic training may result from an experiment being made at Fort Knox with 664 teen-age soldiers. These youngsters are being used as "guinea pigs" in a test to demonstrate how the Army will handle universal military training if it is enacted by Congress.

The test was started several weeks ago in an attempt to prove to U. S. parents and to Congress that the Army could take boys at the tender age of 17, give them a year of training, and make better men out of them for it.

Here are some of the early results which are amazing the training experts:

Morale among the boys is higher than in any unit on the post.

In a short time they have learned to drill and march with as much snap and precision as the crack officer candidate school outfits.

Not one of the trainees has gotten into any kind of trouble in any of the surrounding towns, including Louisville.

There has not been one case of "AWOL"—absence without leave—among the boys.

There has been no case of venereal disease among them.

Careful medical checks reveal they are all physically and mentally healthier than when they entered the Army.

Several Army officials claim that no other basic training outfit has ever come close to a record like this. Although all the boys are regular Army enlistees, in for three years, they were selected for this test to show what an average group of boys would be like under universal military training. One-third of them are high school graduates. The rest had some high school training before they entered the Army. They represent 46 states.

Here are some of the elements of the test training, which many old-time Army men ridiculed before the experiment started, but which now are attracting everybody's serious attention:

For the first four weeks attendance at chapel is compulsory. After that the boys get talks from chaplains once a week. But three-fourths of the boys continue to attend chapel after it ceases to be compulsory.

The boys have a hand in their own discipline. They hold their own courts for serious offenses and decide what punishment should be given.

"Obscene and vulgar" language is prohibited, both among the boys being trained and among the old-timers who are training them.

Rather than tongue-lashings and penalty duty from tough sergeants the trainees are given demerits for minor infractions of regulations. The same system is used at West Point and in other military schools.

Emphasis is placed on encouraging a man to show his individuality rather than pounding into him that he is just a cog in a big machine.

Regular barracks are used for housing the boys, but the interiors are finished and painted.

Leave off the post is supervised by the Army and by special civilian committee.

In addition to these special items which make up the experiment, the boys get the same athletic program and chance to take civilian courses which every man in the Army gets.

Nothing is made easier for them during training or duty in the regular Army peacetime 40-hour week. They arise at the same time as the rest of the men on the post, are run through the same stiff drills and exercises and draw K. P. just as regularly as any buck private in uniform.

The term "boys' town" was first applied to the experiment by skeptical old-timers. Even the top brass who sanctioned the plan in the first place were doubtful of results. Now the Army's top training experts have been hurriedly dispatched to Fort Knox to study the program with instructions to make recommendations for permanent changes in the Army's training formula.

The idea of putting the trainees together in age groups is getting the most attention. Naturally, Trainee Guilan W. Rigsby, 17, of West Huntsville, Ala., was too young to get into World War II, but in the role he's playing here he may set the pace for future army basic training. This muddy, doughboy maneuver is part of the program at the army's Universal Military Training Experimental Unit at Fort Knox, where Rigsby and 663 other teen-agers are getting the best of what the army learned about training after five years of war.

America's Voice in Moscow

A full colonel again in 1936, Marshall was commanding the 12th Brigade when this picture was taken. Here Capt. L. C. Boineau, his chief of staff, watches a master at military planning in action.

At war's end in 1918, Marshall stood with General Pershing and an unidentified civilian on the platform of an observation car in France. "Stay as my chief aide, and help me," said Pershing.

By Marc J. Parsons
NEA Staff Correspondent

"Black Jack" Pershing spoke seriously. Over the swelling cheers of American victory cheers he sensed ominous rumblings. He knew America had entered World War I ill-prepared, that because of this casualties had been unnecessarily high. He wanted no such mistake again.

To George Catlet Marshall, a colonel on his staff, Pershing said: "As Chief of Staff of the Army now, my duty is to find out how to save this country from repeating the tragic blunders that cost us so many lives. Stay as my chief aide, and help me."

It was a serious choice for Marshall. He was 38 years old and his permanent rank in the Army was still captain despite a brilliant war record. Because of his war gained reputation for planning he had been told by an American businessman: "Your organizing ability is worth $20,000 a year to me."—$20,000 against approximately $2500.

Finally Marshall accepted Pershing's offer. He told his would-be employer:

"My country trained me as a soldier. I'll stay a soldier—although promotion's very slow."

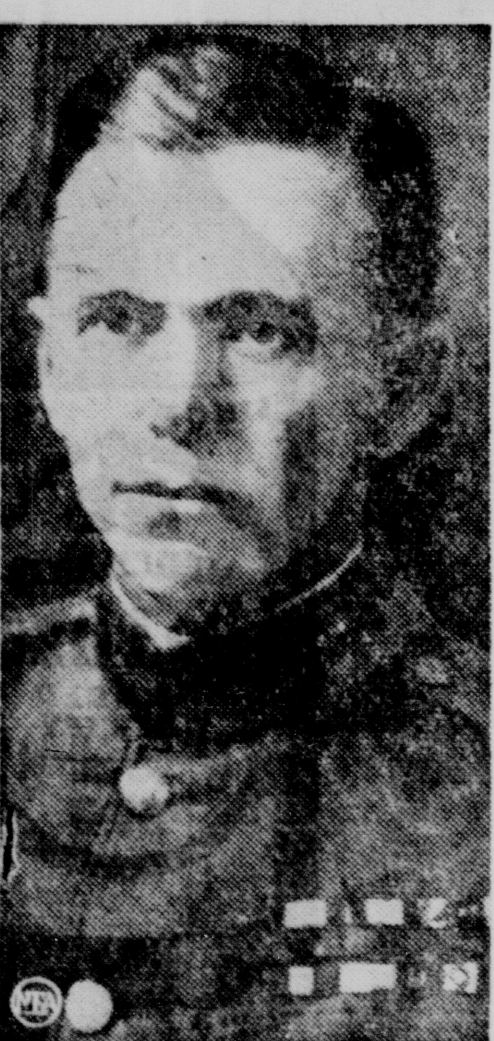

Marshall and Pershing returned to United States on the Leviathan in September, 1919, and went to Washington to begin the long, hard job of saving the Army. Less than a year later on June 30, 1920, Marshall took off his colonel's eagles and put on the bars of a captain. Next day he was promoted to the permanent rank of major.

As a major, Marshall stood at Pershing's side during receptions and whispered "Mexico" or "New York" into the General's ear to prompt him as casual friends came up to be recognized. He handled much of the General's detail work. But his most important work, the job that made a lasting impression on Marshall, was the fight for the National Defense Act. In that he failed.

This bill, as conceived by Pershing and Marshall, created a regular Army of 450,000 troops, a National Guard and an organized reserve. It would, they felt, forever eliminate the possibility of throwing untrained American troops into action. Congress passed the act; then killed it by failing to appropriate for it.

Looking back Marshall once said bitterly, "I saw the Army destroyed." His face flushed an angry red when he spoke. And when Marshall himself was called upon to pull this hot chestnut from the fire almost two decades later, he declared:

"The present dreadful situation with the colossal debts to follow might possibly have been avoided by a scientific approach to national defense, in accordance with the terms laid down in the carefully international diplomacy, keeping peace between U. S. and Chinese forces, and between Americans and other nationalities in the International Settlements in China. He had a way with men and Army posts. Marshall puttered in his own garden and watched gardens bloom behind other quarters and around the barracks. During inspections by outside commands, he lined up his oldest and best enlisted men in the point of service and carefully read off their achievements for the inspecting party. He asked the wives of enlisted men their color preference before redecorating their quarters.

In 1930, after a two-year courtship, he married Mrs. Katherine Tupper Brown, a widow. Gen. Pershing was his best man. His first wife, Elizabeth Carter Coles, sweetheart of his VMI days, had died three years before.

He found time to help Pershing with his memoirs.

When the CCC was turned over to the Army for administration during the depression years, Marshall saw it as a wonderful chance to save thousands of young men. In Georgia and Florida, and later in Washington, he drove miles to inspect camps, talk to boys about their work and their troubles. He arranged get-togethers with communities near camps, and helped the boys get a foothold into community life.

He organized classes for illiterates, told his reserve officers supervising the CCC work that "unless the training is good, the work will be bad." And he encouraged good work by writing personal letters of commendation to the outstanding enrollees.

Once, from his Vancouver Barracks, Wash., headquarters, he selected 10 boys who had done outstanding jobs. One was an Ar-

Steps Taken for New Hospitals

KANSAS CITY, March 19.—(AP)—Citizens of all nearby states are getting their communities in line for new or improved hospitals under the federal aid law, leaders from seven states reported Tuesday at a conference in the United States Public Health Service's district office here. Reporting for Missouri, Dr. John W. Williams of the state division of health at Jefferson City said six counties had voted bond issues for hospitals and hospital campaign funds in several communities await possible co-operation under the program.

In Kansas, the survey has been completed and the enabling act has passed the lower house of the legislature. Charles S. Billings of the state health department, Topeka, said 22 Kansas counties had voted bonds for new hospitals, eight had voted additions to existing county hospitals and 15 communities had completed drives for new local hospitals.

More than 9 million local dollars already have been marked for hospital construction in Kansas under the program.

Christy and Kennedy Win Team Match

Graham And Jones Lose: The Special Event to a Draw

Wrestling entertainment returned to its old status, Tuesday night, in the Australian team match, and the special event on the card. The opening match proved out a real wrestling contest, while the team match brought back memories of the nights of Ray Eckert and Roy "Cowboy" Graham, without Eckert being on the card.

In place of "Wild Bill" Bartush, who became ill Monday, Jimmy Elpulo, Mexico City, Mexico, met Al Alexander of New York City, in one of the cleanest matches seen in the local ring in months. Alexander using the Boston crab won the first fall over Elpulo in 11 minutes and 50 seconds; while Elpulo came back in the second period to win with a double leg lock and smother, in 14 minutes and 15 seconds. The third fall ended in a draw.

No sooner did Roy "Cowboy" Graham, Corsicana, Texas, with his "trimmed" mustache climbed through the ropes than the bores and catcalls began, and they didn't quiet any when Marvin Jones, Amarillo, Tex., his team mate joined him. But the applause was loud when Vic Christy of Van Nuys, Calif., and his mate Jack Kennedy of Dallas, and Boston got in the ring.

The opening seconds started off as if Graham might be trying to do straight wrestling with Christy, but it didn't last long and the battle was on. Beating Christy around Graham then tagged in Jones and his treatment wasn't any too easy. Then Kennedy, got in but Christy wouldn't let him stay. The fall ended in 14 minutes and 30 seconds with Graham pinning Christy.

The second stanza of the match was a rough and tumble affair, but Christy and Kennedy being on the outside during this. Graham took the beating and Christy after whipping him around, put on his famous scissors and won in seven minutes. The fans were brought out of their seats during the period screaming and yelling for Christy and Kennedy.

As the wrestlers went to their dressing rooms, Graham and Jones took a swing at Kennedy and into one room they went chairs flying. Promoter Karras, finally got it stopped and the men went to their respective dressing rooms.

The third fall was five minutes and 20 seconds with Christy pinning Jones to the mat. Jones was practically knocked out from a beating administered by the Kennedy-Christy combination. It was several minutes before any of the four men left the ring after the fall.

"I can't lose with Kennedy as my partner," Christy said when he was informed he and Kennedy are to meet Orville Brown and Donnie O'Connor in a team match next week. Christy lost his match to the two when he had as his mate George Becker of Oakland, California, several weeks ago. "It's going to be fun" exclaimed Kennedy.

Durocher Back In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, March 19—(P)—Still clinging to his unwelcome role of silence, Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers is back in Hollywood, and, judging by his airplane reservations, is planning to return to Havana March 31 with his bride except in California, film actress Laraine Day.

Leo arrived here from the Canal Zone last night, brushed aside all questions from newsmen with repeated "No, no no's" but made little or no effort to avoid cameramen.

Miss Day and her brother, Lamar Johnson, were at the airport to meet him and he left with them in their coupe.

Miss Day obtained a Mexican divorce from airport executive J. Ray Hendricks soon after receiving an interlocutory decree here. She then married Durocher in El Paso, Tex., although her California divorce does not become final for a year. This led to a judicial threat to void the California divorce and a court warning not to live with Durocher in California.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, March 19—(P)—The U. of Utah is on the spot—and not just in tonight's basketball tournament game against West Virginia. With Colorado out of the old Big Seven conference and Denver threatening to leave, the Utes are fresh out of competition in their own class and territory. Utah isn't strong enough or near enough to join the Pacific Coast loop... John Branca, older (yes, that's right) brother of the Dodgers' Ralph, will do some pitching for New York U. this spring.

Batter Rupp

Maybe Adolph Rupp, Kentucky's tearful basketball coach, had his tongue in his cheek yesterday when he was arguing that New York City basketball players are effective "because they're smarter."... Rupp, after a nerve-racking game against Long Island, maintained: "They're smart players and smartly coached, but no wonder! New York City players can come to the Garden three nights a week and see the best teams in the country. They can't do that down in the Kentucky hills; if they did get to Lexington, we wouldn't have room for them in the field house."

Sports Before Your Eyes

The youngest umpire in organized baseball, 19-year-old Henry McGowan, remained in the Class "D" Ohio State League this season at his own request, instead of moving up as he might have after being the only unanimous choice for ump in the 1946 league playoffs... John Bunn, Springfield College cage coach who achieved great results with firehouse basketball at Stanford, says he's going back to the tight defensive game because he believes in being unorthodox... Bob Feller will be a guest on his one-sixth owner's radio show next week... Bob Hope's that is—because Bob says he wants to make fun of a guy with muscles... Report relayed from Nebraska says Gil Dodds is being sought by the movies to play the role of an army chaplain in the film, "Mr. Gideon."

End of The Line

Denver Basketball fans still are gasping over a shot made by Andy Curtis of the Sacramento Solons in the recent American League tournament. Curtis had just started up the floor after taking a rebound when he saw the timer raise his pistol. From just inside the keyhole, Andy let fly at the basket approximately 67 feet away and the ball swished in without touching the rim.

Linus W. Linnebur, seaman, first class, USN, son of Mrs. Leona Linnebur of Tipton, Mo., is serving aboard the battleship USS Missouri, which is participating in the large scale battle maneuvers of the Second Task Fleet in the Central Atlantic and Caribbean areas.

Linnebur entered Naval service in May, 1946, and received his recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

These operations, held during February and March for the purpose of restoring and improving the combat efficiency of the fleet, consist of two principal phases: a series of simulated sea engagements in the Central Atlantic and an all-out amphibious invasion of Culebra, a small island near Puerto Rico in the Caribbean. Between the two phases, sailors and marines from the Missouri had liberty in Trinidad, just off the coast of South America.

Approximately 133 ships are participating in the maneuvers, constituting the largest striking force gathered since Sept. 2, 1945 when, on the first galler deck of the Missouri, the Japanese Surrender Document was signed in Tokyo Bay.

The Doctor Says

DECLINE IN APPENDICITIS MORTALITY

BY WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Advances in early diagnosis and surgical treatment of patients with appendicitis has resulted in a sharp decline in the death rate. If the appendicitis patient is operated on before complications develop, few will succumb to the infection.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company found the death rate from appendicitis of its industrial policy holders had been cut one-half in the past five years and almost three-fourths in the past 10 years. The company believes there is good reason to expect appendicitis to be reduced to a minor cause of death in our country from a high of 18,000 deaths a year just two decades ago.

Acute inflammation of the appendix is a germ infection in which all or part of the appendix is affected. The disease can occur at any age, but it is most common between 10 and 30 years. Men are affected more than women, and city dwellers have more infections than those who live in the country.

The appendix is a blind tube which hangs from the end of the large intestine at its junction with the small intestine in the lower right side of the abdomen. When infection occurs, the swelling may shut off the blood supply and cause gangrene.

Acute inflammation of the appendix has a tendency to disappear through spontaneous healing. If it were known in advance which infected appendices would recover, it would be a simple matter to operate on the others. As it cannot be predicted in the beginning of an attack whether the infection will be confined to the appendix or if it will spread to the peritoneal cavity, removal is advised to avoid complications.

Start Warning Campaign

For many years it was a common practice for patients with abdominal pain to take a laxative or cathartic. This resulted in delay in operations for appendicitis and spread of the infection. As physics never should be taken for abdominal pain, a campaign to warn the public was started by health authorities. Pharmacists and manufacturers of pharmaceutical products co-operated in the program and good results followed.

In Cleveland, O., in 1930, only 12 per cent of patients with acute appendicitis were operated on within 24 hours after the appearance of symptoms; in 1941, first-day operations were performed in 22 per cent of the cases, the number of ruptured appendices decreased and the death rate came down.

In addition to early diagnosis and operation, modern methods of treating appendicitis complications with sulfa drugs and penicillin have further reduced deaths.

QUESTION: We are two young girls, and we wish to sell our bodies for scientific purposes after death.

ANSWER: Bodies are not purchased from living persons by scientific institutions, as the right to dispose of one's body after death rests in the hands of the nearest of kin. If you need financial assistance, apply to your local welfare agency.

It is important, we believe, that there be no doubt concerning price to add to the anxiety of any family we serve. In our display room all merchandise is plainly marked—at moderate fair prices—including all expense.

Take the Laughter

Copyright by Karen DeWolf by Karen DeWolf Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Sherry and Mona rent a cottage together in one of Hollywood's hangarous courts. She works in an insurance office and is making a play for her married boss, George Brothers. Sherry keeps house, wants to write, worries about Mona's interest in Brothers. Two of the boys who live at the end of the court come in one evening to borrow an onion. They are Sandro, who is French—and Tony, who is Australian.

IV

SHERRY pushed back her chair from the desk and stared at the paper before her. Whatever rhymed with "dust"? She had made a list of words that did along the margin of the paper. They began trust, rust, gust. She had to be careful because many words did not suit the spirit of the poem. It was to be a fantasy—the tragedy of a woman who had "lived."

"I live all alone in a castle of dreams," she crossed out "live" and put "dwell." From there on it went quite easily. She changed a word here and there and read it pleasedly. It sounded sad, too heartbroken to be hurt any more. That was just what she had wanted. Maybe people would read it and wonder at her having suffered so, at her age. Maybe the boys would think she had "lived."

Sherry had seen them a lot. She had met Kris too. He was older than Tony and Sandro and at first Sherry had been uncomfortable with him. He was Danish and blond with steely eyes and a long scar down one cheek that he had got from dueling. He had been introduced to her as Captain Christopher Ludwig Van Rantmann. And he had clicked his heels and bowed stiffly like Tony and had kissed her hand. His manner was arrogant, and he had a way of speaking that was like giving orders.

Sherry had decided he was altogether detestable. "I'm not going to like you!" she thought. But she had.

More McIntosh apples were produced both in New York and New England during 1946 than any other apple variety. The McIntosh is excellent for dessert, baking, and general use.

talk. His attitude disturbed her. She changed the subject.

"Is Sandro working today?" she asked.

He was and what was more, he was a fool.

Tony said, "He thinks he's a great actor and he's going to get a chance to show it by doing extra work at five dollars a day."

"Even if he does make the grade," Tony told them, "actors are just kicked around. They play their parts the way they're told. Everybody else in the business does their thinking for them. I'm going to direct."

Sherry was impressed. Kris was not.

He said, "The only money in the picture business is in the production end. If you're any good as a director I'll let you make a picture for me."

The telephone rang and Sherry answered it. It was Mona.

"I won't be home to dinner, angel," she told Sherry. "I'm going out with Mr. Brothers."

"But—but, Mona," Sherry began, "do you think you should?"

Mona laughed.

She said, "Think? I know I should!" Then sweetly, "Don't worry, darling. I'll be home early."

After she hung up Sherry turned from the telephone and attempted to make her voice sound as if the news was not important.

"Mona's not coming home to dinner."

Tony said, "Then eat with us! We're having spaghetti."

Sherry accepted.

After they were gone, she took Whiskers on her lap and sat very still. Now it was beginning, she told herself. The cocktails and the rides home had just been the preliminaries. She thought of all the things that could happen to Mona. Suppose Mr. Brothers' wife was having a detective follow him. Suppose he saw them together at dinner and told Mrs. Brothers and she got a divorce. Then Mona would be a correspondent with her picture in all the newspapers. Mona would be the kind of girl of which Sherry's mother had often spoken—the kind of girl at whom people pointed their finger.

Atoms on Sale!

ATOMS are bite-size—not ground into a powder or pressed into a pill!

Staley dealers everywhere are now featuring Staley Chick ATOMS—the new kind of feed that starts your chicks with a bang! Staley ATOMS are irregular feed morsels that look like this . Unlike mash, Staley ATOMS won't "gum-up" tiny beaks! So different from feeds ground into a powder or pressed into pills . . . so appetizing that chicks eat 'em like kids eat candy!

Staley ATOMS are especially designed to promote thirst . . . induce chicks to drink more water, the cheapest part of your ration and one of the most important! Chicks learn to eat ATOMS quickly . . . are more likely to come through the "Danger Period" safe and sound when well-fed on a healthy ATOMS diet. Staley ATOMS offer you all kinds of advantages over ordinary feeds . . . for example:

♦ So Convenient—Atoms won't "gum-up" on tiny beaks like mash . . . make such a neat, clean feed! ♦ So Appetizing—chicks love these irregular bite-size morsels, and eat 'em like kids eat candy. ♦ So Uniform—sack-to-sack and week-to-week, Staley Atoms are uniform in color, odor and physical appearance as it's humanly possible and practical to make them! ♦ So Nourishing—Atoms are just chock-full of the elements chicks need for quick growth, strong frames and sturdy health! ♦ So Economical—Atoms cost you no more than pellets . . . only 2c worth of Atoms (approximate) per chick per week will see your birds through the first seven weeks! Actually, Atoms save you money on feed bills, because there's so little waste when you feed your chicks these new, modern, appetizing Staley Atoms!

Try This Atoms Program for Healthy Chicks, Quick Growth!

1 Good Bloodlines . . .

You can't raise healthy, profitable fryers or layers unless you start with good chicks! Don't be afraid to ask your hatcheryman about the breeding background of the chicks he wants to sell you—and don't be afraid to pay a few cents more for his better grade chicks. Those extra pennies for better chicks may well prove to be the best investment you ever made. The important thing, of course, is to go to a reliable hatchery—that's the best way to make sure that you get quality chicks with good bloodlines for your money.

2 Right Equipment . . .

Don't start out to raise chicks until you have the equipment to take care of them. Here's what you need: a brooder house with a floor area of 50 square feet for 100 chicks—add one square foot of floor space for each additional 2 chicks. A brooder stove with a canopy diameter of 32 inches for a hundred chicks, 42 inches for 200 chicks, 56 inches for 500 chicks. Four feet of feeder space for every 100 chicks you buy, and 2 gallons of water fountain capacity for every 100 chicks. Have clean, dry litter on hand—keep several inches beneath chicks at all times.

3 Modern Feeding . . .

Don't rely on old-fashioned feeding procedures. Use new, modern Staley ATOMS, the efficient method of feeding chicks for profitable production. No need to bother with wet mashes, because ATOMS are so appetizing that chicks eat 'em like kids eat candy. And Staley ATOMS are especially designed to promote thirst . . . thus induce chicks to drink more water, the cheapest part of your ration and one of the most important! Unlike mash, ATOMS won't "gum-up" tiny beaks . . . are easy to eat because they're bite-sized!

4 Watch Uniformity . . .

Poultry experts will tell you—and you know from your own experience it's true—that even slight variations can throw a chick "off its feed" . . . cut down feed consumption and the chick's rate of growth. That's why it's so important that you use a feed that's uniform—and that's why Staley makes Atoms as uniform, sack-to-sack and week-to-week, as is humanly possible and practical. Be wary of feeds that vary—play safe with Staley Chick Atoms!

Satisfaction Guaranteed . . . or Money Back!

We're so sure that you're going to like Staley Chick ATOMS better than any other starting feed you have ever used that we make this offer to you:

Feed your chicks Staley ATOMS for seven weeks. If you're not completely satisfied with their growth and health at the end of that time, mail the empty sacks direct to Staley Milling Co., Kansas City 16, Missouri, together with analysis tags from each sack, the paid bill for the feed signed by your dealer, and a statement giving the number of baby chicks purchased. We will then refund the full amount you paid for the feed used. This offer expires June 30, 1947.
